MANY TOWNS PROTEST ANY CHANGE W. T.

Resolutions Are Passed and Sent to the Law Makers.

HAMLIN TO AUSTIN

Canyon Citizens Visit in Many Towns of Plains.

Protests have been filed by many towns of Northwest Texas, and resolutions passed demanding that the West Texas State Teachers College remain as a standard four-year college. These resolutions have been forwarded to the senators and representatives at Austin.

Senator Arthur Duggan of Littlefield has been named by the senators of West Texas to gather information to combat any movement which would seek to undermine the West Texas institutions. Information has been assembled and mailed to Senator Duggan regarding W. T.

Judge J. D. Hamlin of Farwell leaves today for Austin where he will remain for some time in the interest of the West Texas institutions. He has volunteered his services in this work for West Texas. Other citizens of the Plains have volunteered to go to Austin when it is deemed necessary for more support for the colleges of this section.

Judge H. E. Hoover of Canadian discussed the injustice sought to be done to West Texas at the Chamber of Commerce banquet at Clarendon Tuesday night, and stated emphatically that no damage must be done to the West Texas State Teachers College.

Judges and commissioners from ten North Plains counties met in Stinnett Friday, and passed resolutions against the proposed change.

Canyon citizens have visited in Plainview, Stinnett, Hereford, Perryton, Memphis, Dalhart, Friona, Farwell, Bovina, Littlefield.

Reports come to the Chamber of Commerce and to the office of President J. A. Hill that resolutions have been passed in many other towns of West Texas criticising the report of the efficiency committee which recommend the reduction in rank of W. T. The first Chamber of Commerce to vigorously protest this report was Odessa.

A meeting of the steering committee of the Chamber of Commerce was held Monday night at the News office in order to review the work which had been done, and the work which was needed in the immediate future.

Dr. Hill and other citizens of Canyon are in demand for various meetings which are being held over the Plains.

Citizens of West Texas are urged to continue writing to the Senators and Representatives at Austin, urging that they use their influence against any change in the West Texas institutions. These letters are of the greatest value. Citizens are urged not to confine their efforts only to the West Texas delegation, but to include each and every senator and representative in the legislature with whom they may be acquainted.

Dr. R. P. Jarrett, Miss Hattie M. Anderson, Professor John Gillis and Mrs. T. V. Reeves attended a meeting of Ex-students and other citizens at Hereford last Thursday night. Dr. Jarrett was the principal speaker at the meeting at which Mrs. Bessie Chambers Patterson, a former Canyon girl, presided. Mrs. Bob Wilson, formerly Mabel Faulkner, W. S. Kerr, W. D. Nafsgar, Neville Wrenn, G. A. F. Parker, and Supt C. H. Dillehay

'Vanities' to Show Saturday Night at Amarillo Auditorium

It's going to be a gala day in Amarillo for all the Panhandle.

Saturday of this week is the day that the big-time theatrical season will be opened in the Panhandle, the ninth edition of Earl Carroll's "Vanities" will be here on that date for two performances, matinee and night.

Judging from the advance orders for tickets that have been received, hundreds of visitors from every corner of the Panhandle will be in town for the festivities. Mail orders are still being received by Wilbur C. Hawk, at the Globe-News, and are being filled in the order received.

Amarillo will be the first city in Texas ever to see a genuine Earl Carroll production. The Vanities is guaranteed entertainment, Mr. Hawk says. The same entertainers and the same show that appeared all last season on Broadway will be presented here. There are 100 members of the company, traveling by special train of ten cars. Thirty stage hands will be required backstage at the big municipal auditorium to move the scenery for the 55 scenes into which the show is divided.

The leading men of the production are Al Trahan, famous piano playing master of ceremonies, and the comedy acrobatic team of Mitchell and Durant that stole the show in Kansas City recently. Then there are dancers and singers galore, good comedians, tuneful music and lots of the famous Carroll beauties.

Reservations may be made by mail order to Wilbur C. Hawk at The News-Globe or by calling Miss Lois Black, 6262.

Matinee prices are 83 cents, $1.10, $1.65 and $2.20, including tax.

Prices for the night performance are $1.10, $1.65, $2.20, $2.75 and $3.30, including tax.

Postage should be enclosed with remittances in mail orders.

DR. BROWN IMPROVES

Word from Dr. H. A. Brown at Portland states that he is improving rapidly from his long illness. He has been able to play a little golf and has been fishing several times. Word received here that he had turned for the worse has proven to be untrue.

Ross Craig Gets Impossible Score

A new problem confronts the golfers.

What is three under par, if one under par is a birdie, and two under is an eagle?

The general opinion is that three under is impossible.

If so, chalk up an Impossible for Ross Craig.

Sunday afternoon on hole 15, 606 yards with a par 6, Ross shot a 4 the first time around. Chalk up an eagle for Ross.

The second time around, Ross decided that four was poor playing so made it in THREE, or three under par. He holed out 185 yards from the green. Chalk up an IMPOSSIBLE for Ross.

At least Ross has put up something for the hot shots to shoot at.

Hill Takes Budget To Austin Today— To Meet Ferguson

Dr. J. A. Hill leaves today for Austin where he will meet Governor Ferguson Saturday to discuss the budget for W. T. Under the law the Governor is required to submit a budget to the legislature as a basis for the appropriations bill. Mrs. Ferguson announced several weeks ago that she would require a reduction of 25% in appropriations for the coming two years.

Dr. Hill states that he has revised the budget in keeping with the demands of Governor Ferguson, and hopes that the legislature will accept the recommendations.

Deputy Sheriff Named For North Part of County

W. L. Lyons was named last week by the Commissioners Court to serve in the north part of the county for the coming two months. This office was abolished the first meeting of the court in January, but owing to the necessity of collecting automobile taxes, it was decided at the last meeting to continue the office for two months.

The bond of Charles Beckman, constable of precinct No. 2, was approved.

The county treasurer's quarterly report and other monthly business was transacted at this session.

BUFFS TAKE ON TECH FOR TWO BATTLES

Friday and Saturday to See Fast Games at Gymnasium.

BUFFS HAVE ODDS

Winners of 25 Games in 27 Starts Against Matadors.

Two basketball games that will be of great interest to Panhandle fans will be played in Canyon Friday and Saturday nights of this week, when Coach Del Morgan brings his Texas Tech Matadors to Canyon for their annual "Jousts" with the West Texas Buffaloes.

In the past, these schools have met 27 times on the hardwood floor, and the Buffs have turned in 25 wins. However, there have been some great struggles recorded, whirlwind finishes, lucky shots just as the timer's gun barked ending the game, as well as many other thrilling incidents which come up for discussion whenever fans of the two institutions reminisce.

This year Tech seems to have the best team ever produced at the Lubbock school, while the West Texas Buffs, potentially, are the greatest ever turned out at Canyon but have been classed as an in and out club. However, it is believed that by the middle of the season, Coach "Sad" Sam Burton's Giants will be working smoothly. It is always a good game when the Buffs and matadors meet.

The Schuette family lived here several years ago, and the wife is buried in Dreamland Cemetery.

Trinity President Opposes Plan to Increase Tuition

Dr. John Burma, President of Trinity University, Waxahachie preached at the Presbyterian Church Sunday. He discussed with Canyon people the educational situation in Texas with a number of Canyon people, and was frank in stating that he opposed reducing the state colleges in rank. As head of a Presbyterian institution, Dr. Burma is convinced that the denominational colleges can never take the place of state supported colleges, and should not. He cited that Trinity was surrounded by state colleges, but even should all be abolished, he did not believe that it would greatly increase the attendance at Trinity because of the higher tuition. The state schools are for the poor boys and girls of the state, who would be deprived of an education if the tuition was greatly increased.

It is reported that most of the agitation for a great increase in the tuition charges of state schools comes from three denominational colleges of the state, but that others are opposed to the program, since the state has a duty toward the poor boys and girls of the state who would be deprived of an education if the tuition was placed beyond their means.

STATE BOARD CONTROL SET W. T. BUDGET

Recommendations Made to Legislature for Biennum.

BIG CUTS MADE

More than 25% Cut Is Set Up—Salaries Lowered.

The State Board of Control has issued its budget with recommendations to the legislature for the support of the state government for the coming two years. The Board makes the recommendation of $38,260,074 for the support of the state government for the coming two years. The amount of the appropriations for the past two years totaled $45,856,034. The various departments and institutions of the state had requested a total of $53,243,573 for the coming two years.

For the West Texas State Teachers College, the Board of Control has recommended a total of $368,834 for the coming two years, as compared with the appropriation of the past two years of $514,824. This is less than the 25% reduction which Mrs. Ferguson has asked that the various institutions make. W. T. had requested $621,219.91.

Elimination of the appropriation for the summer sessions, of three teaching positions for the regular session, and all permanent improvements was responsible for the largest part of the decrease in the recommendations.

According to the recommendations, salaries have been reduced approximately 10% throughout the schedule for teachers colleges. For the courts of the state and for many positions in the state department and the university the reduction amounts to 15%.

Departmental maintenance remains about the same as during the past two years, since these items were materially cut in the last appropriations bill to the lowest level in many years.

The recommendations of the Board of Control are used as a basis for consideration of the legislature, but may be changed to any extent by the legislature in finally passing the appropriations bill. It is likely that the appropriations will not be finally considered by the legislature until late in the session, or about the first of May.

THE LEGISLATURE STARTS

The News man was an interested spectator at the opening of the 43rd legislature which convened on Tuesday of last week. Called to Austin to close the business affairs of the 42nd legislature, it was with interest that we viewed the opening of a new legislature, which is confronted with the biggest legislative program in the history of the state. An experienced legislator made the observation that the best thing which could happen to Texas would be for the 43rd legislature to pass as low an appropriation bill as possible and adjourn, but he little expected this owing to the great mass of legislation which was confronting the members.

Many comments will be made about the new House of Representatives by the political writers. The first observation regards the age of the members. We have taken pains to ascertain and check up on this phase. While the average age of the 42nd legislature was 46 years, the average age of the present House has been reduced to 41 years. The lower average is due to the election of more young men than usual. 74 members of the present House are under 40 years of age, whereas in the last House only 52 members were under 40 years of age. In the present House there are 35 members in their 20's, and 39 in their 30's; compared with the membership in the last House of 21 in their 20's and 31 in their 30's.

All of the upper age brackets were materially reduced in the present House as compared with the past legislature, as shown as follows:

	42nd	43rd
20 years	21	35
30 years	31	39
40 years	34	29
50 years	33	24
60 years	19	18
70 years	8	3
80 years	None	1

Lawyers still lead the vocation of the members of the House, with 73 as compared with 70 in the last session. Teachers gained 7 places in the House, while newspapers lost 5 places. The other vocations remain about the same, distributed among farmers, 27 in number, merchants, bankers, druggists, etc.

The big event in the opening of any session is the election of the Speaker of the House. This year saw an unusual contest between A. P. Johnson and Coke Stevenson. Johnson forces claimed 100 members pledged on Saturday before the opening. With the aid of Governor-elect, Mrs. Ferguson, and James E. Ferguson, together with hundreds of their friends, letters, telegrams and personal work, a decided change was made in sentiment during Sunday, and the observer was convinced by Monday that Stevenson would be elected.

The ballot Tuesday afternoon proved this to be true.

More lobbyists assembled early in Austin this session than ever before. They are not waiting until their pet bills appear; they are there for immediate action. A bitter fight will be made against the passage of any sort of a tax producing measure.

The 84 new members are taking their jobs seriously. However, it will take some time before leadership is developed along any special lines.

Citizens of Canyon are wondering what disposition will be made of W. T. Unfortunately it is impossible to catch even a glimpse of the situation during the organization period. We talked with each and every West Texas member, and all are bitterly opposed to any injustice that may be done to West Texas institutions. All were frank in their opinion that the expense of state must be reduced, but they do not wish to saddle all of the reduction on the colleges. They will stand for a reduction of all appropriations. The appeal of Mrs. Ferguson for a 25% reduction seemed to meet with hearty approval. However, the Board of Control has issued a budget, approved by Governor Sterling, which is not so drastic in reductions. Just what the result of appropriations will be is hard to say at this time. The first test for the colleges will come in the emergency appropriations for summer schools. Sentiment of the legislature will likely be determined in this fight as to the future of the institutions. We believe that no institution will be abolished if all of the friends of education remain active until this question is finally settled.

Governor Sterling dismissed the recommendations of the Efficiency and Economy committee by his statement that these were too drastic and would not be accepted. It would seem that the $100,000 spent by this committee during the last year will prove to little or no avail.

The most pathetic figure in the House of Representatives Tuesday was Mrs. R. S. Sterling. The terrible strain of financial loss which has wiped out the Sterling fifteen million dollar fortune; the defeat for a second term, the conditions of the day; the loss of her friends in the political battles of the year, and the defeat on Tuesday of Sterling's staunch supporter, Johnson, told on Mrs. Sterling. Practically ignored by the huge crowd which milled in the House, Mrs. Sterling was to be pitied. No more tragic change could possibly have taken place in the political fortunes of an individual than that depicted by Mrs. Sterling.

The new legislature is underway. For the next four months great problems will confront the law makers. Drastic changes have been proposed in the organization of the state government. Mature thought and sober judgment is needed on the part of the legislators, and wise council should be extended to the law makers by each and every citizen. For this reason, it is necessary that citizens write their law makers and give them the benefit of any information which they may have regarding the questions before the legislators may know that they are carrying out the wishes of the people back home. Write to the members of the legislature; they will carefully consider your letters, and be guided by the information which you have to offer.

Higgins News: In a radio talk recently Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is credited with saying: "The average girl of today faces the problem of learning very young how much she can drink of such things as whiskey and gin and sticking to the proper quantity." Of course the next first lady was talking against prohibition, but all the same she made a first class talk for that which she was working against. By legalizing four per cent beer, the beer will be popularized. And being a popular drink, sold without restriction, men, women and children will guzzle beer. As beer is intoxicating—or it would not find so much favor with out servants? at Washington—those who rush the can will have to find out how much they can drink without falling under the table. And as girls, as well as boys, will have to drink beer to increase the revenue with which to balance the budget, they will have to see how much they can take at a sitting without actually getting stewed. And as little girls and big girls and all classes and kind of girls are expected by our lawmakers to drink huge quantities of beer to balance the budget, why care how much our girls and our boys drink! Beer will be a first class substitute for ice cream. That budget just has to be balanced and our politicians just must have their fling.

A TEST OF GENIUS

By BRUCE BARTON

The shortest verse in the new Testament is "Jesus wept." That tragic note in his story the Gospel record has carefully preserved. How we wish it might also have told us what occurred on the night after the chronic old grumbler was healed at the river. Did Jesus stop suddenly in the middle of the supper, and set down his cup, while a broad smile spread across his wonderful face? If he did the disciples were probably puzzled—they were so often puzzled—and surely we have the revered right to guess what was in his mind, as he pictured the home-coming of that cured old man. On that evening surely Jesus must have laughed.

Some one has said that genius is the ability to become a boy again at will. Lincoln had that type of genius. Around his table in Washington sat the members of his Cabinet silenced by their overwhelming sense of responsibility. It was one of the most momentous meetings in our history. To their amazement instead of addressing himself directly to the business in hand, Lincoln picked up a volume and began to read aloud a delightful chapter of nonsense from Artemus Ward.

Frequent chuckles interrupted the reading, but they came only from the President. The Secretaries were too shocked for expression! Humor at such an hour—it was well nigh sacrilegious! Heedless of their protesting looks, Lincoln finished the chapter, closed the book and scanned their gloomy faces with a sigh.

"Gentlemen, why don't you laugh?" he exclaimed. "With the fearful strain that is upon me this night and day, if I did not laugh I should die; and you need this medicine as much as I."

With that remark he turned to his tall hat which was on the table and drew forth what Secretary Stanton described as a "little white paper."

The "little white paper" was the Emancipation Proclamation.

Stanton could hardly restrain his impulse to walk out of the room. No one of his Cabinet really understood Lincoln. He was constantly scandalizing them by his calm disregard of convention, and his seemingly prodigal waste of time. The friends and advisers of Jesus were similarly shocked. How could any one with such important business allow himself to be so casually interrupted to heal a sely-pitying old man at the river! One of the surest marks of greatness, of course, is accessibility and the appearance of having an unstinted allowance of time. "Extreme busyness is a symptom of deficient vitality," says Stevenson. The disciples were extremely busy, Judas most of all. He was the treasurer of the group, harassed because expenses ran high and there was no certainty of tomorrow's income. Jesus brushed away such petty worries with a smile.

"Consider the lilies of the field," he exclaimed, "they toil not neither do they spin, yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

Canyon City Club Directors

At the annual meeting held in the court house Monday this club elected a new board of directors as follows: Oscar Hunt, R. A. Sowder, O. C. Davis, R. A. Campbell, J. D. Gamble, D. A. Park, and C. R. Burrow.

Tuesday at a stockholders meeting the Canyon City Ice and Light Company elected the following new board of directors: J. C. Pipkin, L. C. Lair, Geo. L. Abbott, T. H. Rowan and J. E. Rogers.

Otto Kransey and J. Rhutasel of Baravia, Illinois were Saturday visitors at The News Office. The first had bought a quarter section and both said they expected to move down here.

Miss Blanche Ennis, a young lady from Southern Iowa, is staying at Mrs. R. L. Faulkner's. Her father has recently purchased some land in the Panhandle.

L. T. Lester and son, Dunlap, left on Tuesday for the annual round among the banks of the South Plains in which Mr. Lester is interested. They will be absent several days.

The Junior Epworth League reorganized recently with the following officers: Lucile Jordan, president; Miriam Wilson, vice-president, Gladys Rogers, sec'y; Hazel Hawkins, organist. Time of meeting, 3 o'clock p. m., every Sunday at the M. E. Church.

The advisory committee appointed by the Commercial Club to assist the county commissioners met with two of the commissioners Monday and decided to recommend a building of brick trimmed with Jacksboro stone, or something as good, with two stories above the basement and roofed perhaps with asbestos shingles. Sentiment seemed to favor a building as nearly square as practicable and all agreed that there should be four entrances, the heat to be either steam or hot water.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Chevrolet has also introduced an entirely new type of rear axle with the outstanding mechanical advantages of a four-pinion differential and a straddle-mounted pinion with bearing support on both sides.

In addition, the Chevrolet 131-inch truck now has a much stronger frame, with deeper, heavier side members. The 1½-ton models have a sturdier universal joint, as well as larger brakes, improved springs, and a new 15-gallon fuel tank.

Nothing that Chevrolet has ever done before in trucks can equal the importance of this announcement: *A stronger, more powerful, more durable six-cylinder line. Even more economical than last year. And priced as low as $440!

FABRICS and colors are tremendously important in costumes that are attracting attention these days.

Red abounds, as if in answer to Old Man Depression. For certainly it is hard to hold a long face when you have on a becoming red dress. Almost any red that becomes you suits the fashion world this year. But there are many clear, deep, rich reds, perhaps more of them than the rusty, wines or orange reds of earlier winter days.

There's a new wrinkle in red, too. You can have a dress of one red and of woolen fabric and then have touches or a jacket or cape of some of the new silks, in another red but one that goes with the wool frock. This manages to get a lot of life and light into one costume and it makes it a more interesting get-up, too.

Black is still the best bet for you, if you can have a single daytime or dressy outfit. The one outstanding advantage of black is that if you want any accessories, you just get black ones without that fatiguing process of hunting all over town for just the right shade, which is what you always have to do for brown, green, blue or any color but black.

Roughish crepes are still worn but flat crepe, satin, faille, novelty sheer woolens and wool and silk mixtures are being shown for late winter wear. And the costume that lends itself to several different moods is the one that it pays to buy.

• • •

RIGHT in this category is a very practical dress of very dark red crepe. First, it is a perfect office or school dress, as is. Then, the long sleeves may be taken off and you have a neat little late afternoon or dinner dress, since length of skirt makes practically no difference this year for such times. Last, but not least, there is the cutest little vivid cape of crimson silk which ties at the neck. It conceals the detachable quality of the sleeves. For they are drawn up on the arms like gloves, with rows of shirring at the top, held in place by elastic, and snapped to the armhole under the arm. Whether you wear them or take them off, the little cape gives the costume a pleasing gaiety.

Photos Courtesy Bergdorf Goodman, New York City

Frock, hat and shoes of the charming costume shown at left are all in velvet. White gardenias emphasize the high neckline. A crimson cape conceals the fact that the long sleeves of the dark red crepe dress, shown at right, are detachable, to provide an afternoon or dinner dress. A wide band of shirring acts as the belt and gives a bloused effect to this frock.

A second costume that follows the mode completely is a black velvet dress that is suitable for just about anything from a wedding to luncheon. It has the new over-blouse cut, with a peplum effect, and is belted. It has long sleeves and its skirt is the average length, which lets you wear it many more times than if it were cut longer.

A group of white gardenias at the collarline provides an elegant touch, a becoming one to most women. And the nice part about it is that you can change the gardenias to pink roses or any other color you feel like wearing on a given day and that little change makes your whole dress look different.

Worn with this dress is a black velvet hat and some black velvet pumps, showing the way velvet is used for practically everything to wear, these days.

Shall College Entrance Fees Be Raised?

By J. L. DUFLOT

There is a group in Texas waging a vigorous campaign to raise tuitional fees for college students. The purpose of this movement is two-fold: first, to supply a source of revenue for financing college education; second, to raise the fee on the basis of what it will cost to keep some of the private and denominational schools alive.

The advocates of this theory claim that the state is under no obligations to operate a free college for students who will profit directly from this type of education. It is assumed that children are in school primarily for the benefit of the state and only incidentally for their own benefit, while the college and professional student are in school primarily for their own personal gain and only incidentally for the benefit of the state. The argument sounds euphonious but it is extremely fallacious. It is contrary to human experience and logically unsound.

Education a Socializer

If the order had been reversed, this generalization would more nearly approach reality in both its social and economic aspects. Socially, the child is an individualist of the highest order. He is primarily interested in himself and only incidentally interested in the state. In fact, he is of very little benefit to the state. As he becomes more and more educated and cultured, common sense tells us that the tendency is for him to become more socialized and more useful to the state.

The presidents of our denominational colleges, some of whom are sponsoring this measure, have been responsible for sending into the world a great body of men and women whose characters have been enriched through contact with their personalities. One is loathe to believe that if they had terminated their education at the high school rather than at the college or university level, they would have been of more benefit to society. We may say the same thing about the physician, the minister, the engineer, artist, teacher, and other highly trained men and women.

Society is Beneficiary

In considering the economic aspects, one must confess that the college and professionally trained men and women do receive a financial benefit for the services they render to society as the result of the education provided by the state. But so do the people who terminate their education with either the elementary or secondary schools. If we accept the premises in this argument about primary and incideltal benefits as true, logically, we must conclude that the state should not support either elementary or secondary education, for at whatever level one terminates his schooling, from that time forward he becomes the primary and the state only an incidental beneficiary.

However, I am inclined to believe that more college graduates and professionally trained men and women are in better position to serve society more effectively than a proportionate number of graduates from either the elementary or high school. If this were not true, we should junk our higher educational systems both state and denominational and pass a law limiting all education with graduation from high school.

Advance in Education

The idea that the education of the child is of primary benefit to the state while that of the college student is of primary benefit to the individual is the same old argument that was advanced against the establishment of free tuition in the American High School. When the American high school was founded it was regarded as an institution of "higher learning." It was claimed then that since the high school student profited directly from this education, he should be made to pay for it.

With every advancement made in American cultural life there has been a corresponding advancement made in the program of free education. What is considered a school of higher learning in one age, becomes a school of secondary education in a more advanced age. We have no assurance that our present system of state supported colleges mark the apex of learning.

Problem of Free Education

The founders of the public school system have consistently given primary consideration to the educational needs of the childhood and youth of the state. In the history of the development of free education, the state has not followed the policy of regulating its program on the basis of the effect it will have upon the private and denominational schools. On the contrary, it has been ever diligent in providing the needed type of education for the different levels of culture to which the nation has risen from time to time. It is just as necessary to provide free colleges for this complex social and economic age as it was to provide free elementary and free high schools for the respective ages in which these were founded. Thru corporate action of its people, the state can educate its childhood, youth, and adult students more economically and more generally than can be done by private enterprise.

I am not pleading for an abolition of the supplementary fees now being charged state college students, although, logically, this position cannot be defended. The only justification we can make for it is that it must be accepted as a transitional policy in higher education. In the present financial crisis it should be lowered rather than raised, or at least, left at its present status.

Tuition Limits Attendance

It is astonishing that in the face of reduction of the cost of material goods, prominent church school leaders should be found espousing the cause of advancing the price of the intellectual, esthetic, moral, and spiritual values of life. The people who are the least able to buy advanced educational opportunities are the ones being singled out to assume the greater portion of this burden in the name of economy. It is inconceivable that public spirited men and women in legislative and executive positions will give serious consideration to the proposition of penalizing ambitious young men and women from homes of meager circumstances who are seeking to equip themselves for servicable and effective citizenship.

I am not charging the people who are demanding that college students pay high tuitional fees with harboring a deliberate purpose to deprive the adult student masses of an education, but as the movement indicates, their activities are unwittingly directed toward this end.

BUFFS TO PLAY EAST CENTRAL

Ada, Okla., Teachers Invade W. T. Premises Next Week

When East Central Teachers from Ada, Oklahoma pay their first visit to the Buffalo range next Monday and Tuesday for two basketball games with Coach "Sad" Sam Burton's towering giants, they will be defending a record for their section of the country that is just as enviable as is the Buffaloes' in this section.

Forty-five straight wins in conference play is their record, and it is rumored that their 1933 aggregation is even more formidable than any of their previous teams. This year they have toppled the Baylor Bears in a top heavy score and just recently upset Hugh McDermott's Oklahoma University Sooners to the tune of 35-27 and the Sooners are doped to be at least as good as second when the final games are played in the Big Six Conference this year.

The East Central boys are coached by "Micky" McBride, a former Sooner basketeer. He is regarded as one of the up and coming young coaches of the country. His men shoot from all positions on the floor, and seem to be as accurate with the long shots as with the short ones. They played at the National Tournament last year, and were one of the best College teams there. They dropped a close game to Schuslers Athletic Club of Chicago in the second round.

East Central will be at the Buffalo gym at Canyon Monday and Tuesday, January 23 and 24.

Many machines for home use are run by electricity but you can't feed the baby a bottle in the middle of the night that way.

Less than a third of the population are white—and even those that are white don't always act that way.

It is true that the way of the transgressor is hard, but it makes the way of the lawyers easier.

And sometimes very careful drivers lose control of their cars when they fail to meet their payments.

Creditable Course of Public Speaking Given to Debaters

Mr. George Terry has started a new and interesting course for the Canyon High School. The course of Public Speaking meets the second period after noon hour and it gives a half credit.

If Mr. Terry can find ways of transportation he intends to take the four people of the debate squad to McLean, Hereford, Pampa, Plainview and Friona to contest the squads of these towns.

All of the speaking departments intend to attend a tournament at Amarillo Jan. 17th and 18th.

Mr. Terry has told the people of the debate class that there will be a good deal of work involved in this.

The ones that don't make the squad will read and prepare talks on the same subjects as those that make the squad.

Music-Expression Recital To Be Monday, Jan. 23

A music and expression recital will be given by Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Crump at the Canyon High School auditorium Monday night, January 23, at eight o'clock. The expression pupils will appear in costumes.

The public is invited to this interesting program.

Eagle Cagers Bow To Whitefaces In Fast Games

The Eagles have gone through another week of unsuccessful cage jousts. They journeyed to Hereford Friday evening and dropped a double header to the fast Whiteface squads.

The Canyon girls went down in defeat before the Hereford feminine squad by the score of 22-29. The Hereford lassies were led in by the irresistable Elaine Dyer, an all-state guard with the Dimmitt State Champion Sextet last year. Elaine's guarding was the one main factor that kept the crack Eagle forwards, Mable Schmitz and Velma Crawford, from keeping the baskets hot with field goals.

Velma Crawford was high point scorer of the tilt with 18 points. She was followed closely by Miss Arthur of Hereford, who scored 17 points. Armor Lee Greenfield's guarding and Athalee Overton's work at center stood out for the locals. Hereford led at the half 20 to 6.

The boys don't play as good ball on Friday 13th as they might otherwise. This game at Hereford was played on the 13th (Friday) and the Eagles scored 13 points against 23 for the Hereford quintet.

Tyson Cox was high point man for the Eagles with five points; three via the charity route and two as a result of a field goal. Austin Cone played a stellar floor game for the Eagles. Austin was the only man who was able to penetrate the Hereford defense.

Ples Baker and Kermit Wilson were the Hereford mainstays. Allred and Russell played good ball for the Whitefaces.

Half of the '32 and '33 year is over and also exams. New programs are practically all arranged and everything is beginning to settle back into its former steady routine. Many of the students are enjoying the new courses that are being offered, while others are taking a new start on the year's work.

A hard thing about making money last is making money first.

Greater Interest Taken in School Music Courses

The music department of Canyon High School is rapidly enlarging. It has previously consisted of a glee club, band, violin, chorus, and a boys' trio. In addition to these things, in the second semester an orchestra will be added.

The glee club has met on Mondays and Wednesdays each week in the last semester. They have learned several classical songs and have entertained in assembly programs several times.

The band also has met two days out of each week, the past half year. This organization and an active violin chorus are planning to organize an orchestra. This will be the first orchestra in Canyon High School for several years.

The boys' trio consists of J. H. Wright, H. B. Owen, and Marvin Calliham. These boys sang in assembly programs and gave two vaudeville numbers in the Pep Squad play.

Supervisor's Column

Your Money's Worth

Money spent for janitorial service in the Public Schools of Canyon buys some of the finest care and upkeep that can be found in the public buildings anywhere.

Two men, Mr. Kiker, and Mr. Kirkpatrick are employed in the janitor's work, and they have a considerable task in keeping the buildings clean and well-heated. To, those who are not in contact with their work, the job may seem easy, but to us who are here and see the work being done every day, it looks entirely different. Mr. Kiker, as head of the department, is directly responsible to Mr. Carruth and with his co-worker, Mr. Kirkpatrick, manages to do a fine piece of work.

The class rooms, halls, and laboratories must be swept daily, and other rooms, such as the gymnasiums and the auditorium, swept from once to several times per week. The buildings must be warm by 8:30, and on cold days this means that the fires must be going at anywhere from 3:00 to 5:00 in the morning.

In addition to these regulation duties, in a plant of this size, repairs are constantly necessary. One example of this is the complete rearranging of lockers, in order to make them more accessible to the students. The repairs cover a large range, from installing a new window glass to the replacing of defective plumbing, located underneath concrete floors. Besides the repair jobs, there must be the scrubbing and oiling of floors, the cleaning of blackboards, the washing of desks to prevent spread of disease, and the care of buildings when a night program of any sort is to be held. Another duty which requires careful attention is watering and caring for the trees and grass, so that your public school property may set the right kind of example.

All in all, I can say that the janitorial service of this school is the best to be found in any school system in this section of the country. Canyon should be proud that its buildings are in such competent hands.

GEORGE TERRY.

Tawawana Club Issues Paper To Students

The Tawawana Club issued a paper to its members before the examinations to cheer them up in their undertakings. The paper announced that a picture is to be taken of the club members soon. It contained many jokes and afforded every Tawawanan a good laugh.

Th Tawawana club was organized in October, 1932. The purpose of the club is to get a better understanding of nature and life.

The executive body of the club is the cabinet, consisting of the officers. This body includes the president, vice president, secretary-treasurer, and chairman of different committees. The officers are:

President, Irene Thompson; vice president, Verline Furlow; secretary-treasurer, Ruby Guthrie; director of programs, Laura Ferne Brian; director of recreation, Lela Hickox, director of publicity, Kathryn Robinson; director of songs, Mable Schmitz.

After the club was organized, the members voted to exclude all prospective new members. After Christmas it was decided to let ten more students become members, making a total of 45 members.

Interesting programs were planned in November for the entire school year. These were printed in booklets and given to the members.

A study of health, as one of the programs, led to the issuance of health charts. These charts are very useful in checking the personal care of the members of the Tawawanna clum.

Among the coming programs is a one-act play to be given by a few members.

Plans for a chapel program are under way. This program will be presented January 25, 1933.

The club went on a weeny-roast before Christmas and everyone had a good time.

Pictures are being collected for a club memory book. The success of this club has been largely due to the efforts of the sponsor, Miss Murrell.

Ruby Foster spent the week end with Vera Brown, an ex-student of Amarillo.

Little Red Harris spent the week end with Gertrude and Florence Meader at Umbarger.

Eagles Defeated By Friona Chiefs Saturday Night

The Eagles returned to their home court Saturday night to drop two more games, these to the Friona teams.

In one of the fastest games ever played on the local court the Friona Squaws turned back the Eagle sextet 30-28. The game was fast and fouls were frequent. Armor Lee Greenfield, ace guard and captain, fouled out early in the fourth quarter. Routhes, Friona center fouled out in the fourth quarter.

Velma Crawford, again was high point scorer of the game with 24 of the Eagles' 28 points. Miss Boren, tall auburn haired Squaw, from Friona ran Velma a close second for scoring honors with 23 points.

The most amazing game of the season was probably the game between the Eagles and the Friona quintet. The game was fast and full of thrills. The Friona boys won 28-10, but nevertheless the Canyon boys left their impression.

The Eagles were only able to score one field goal against the towering Friona boys, and that was registered by Thomas, substitute Eagle forward. Stroud, A. Brasuel and R. Black were taken from the game on fouls. Drake, Barnett and Frost fouled out of the game for Friona.

Who's Who

In each basketball game, only eight or nine of the seventeen girls who come out usually play. The numbers range from one to nine.

Armor Lee Greenfield, junior, is captain of the team. This is her third year to play guard. Her number is one.

Number two is Athalee Overton, a junior, who plays guard. This is Athalee's first year here, but she has had two years' experience with the White Deer team.

Wilma Harris, run center, is number three. This is Wilma's second and last year.

Dora Mae Plaster, who is completing her second year as jump center is number four. She has one more year here.

Velma Crawford, co-captain and forward, is playing her second season. She is number five and has one more year.

Number six, the other forward, is Mable Schmitz. This is Mable's second year to come out. She is a sophomore.

Gailen Porter, alternate run center, is number seven and has one more year in high school.

Armita Kirkpatrick, number eight and a junior, is substitute forward.

Mary Lee West and Yvonne Thomas, substitute guards, both wear number nine. Geneva Whitman, also substituting guard, wears a blue three on her shirt.

The girls' basketball coach this year is Miss Ann Smith. She has been coaching here for two years.

The grades of the basketball girls are average. Some of the girls grades remain as they were, while others fall below their standards.

One player is a class president, two are members of the student council and everyone of the girls belong to one or more clubs. Most of them being interested in other sports; three of them being tennis players last spring. Two of them are taking expression, but none are taking music.

High School Is Re-Admitted In School Association

Canyon High School has been readmitted to the Association of Accredited Secondary Schools, which is an association of colleges and secondary schools of the Southern States, making this school entitled to all privileges and scholastic recognition resulting therefrom.

This school has maintained a very high standing in this organization for the past ten years.

Mr. Carruth has received a letter from this association highly congratulating the whole school organization on the training and experience of the faculty, work of students, and splendid equipment, all of which form the basis for admittance of the association.

Practice Has Begun On Minstrel

The practice of the negro minstrel began last Monday night. The proceeds from the negro minstrel will go for the football awards.

Scouts

Canyon Girl Scouts, Troop No. 2, has been doing many interesting things since moving into the Scout Lodge.

Miss Rosalie Leslie of the college taught the Scouts the Indian sign language.

Cowboy songs were taught by Hettie Lou Bagley.

At Christmas time the Troop made toys and gave them to the Stocking Crusade.

Floy Shaw of the College, has begun work with the girls. She plans to instruct them in life saving, archery and various kinds of athletics.

In the spring they plan to go on many over night hikes to the Palo Duro club and Bourn's creek.

Lelia Hickox was the guest of Eloine Myers of Amarillo during the week end. A party was given and then the group ended a perfect evening by attending a midnight matinee.

ALL THIS COMMOTION

Last week the Canyon High School was the scene of much turmoil, rush and work. Everyone was working to finish up all the last minute details and to be prepared to take the mid-term examinations.

Amid all this rush one could hear such questions as "Where did you put my notebook?" "Do you have all your questions?" "Let me borrow the answer to the last question," and "When do you have your history exam?"

Then, Thursday and Friday, all this noise and rush ceased. A hush fell over the school building and students walked through the halls with a grieved or worried expression on their faces.

Occasionally, a student would be seen coming from a class room where an exam was being given looking glorified and triumphant, giving the casual observer the idea that he had successfully sailed through one more barrier.

This week we are having a breathing period and thanking our stars that we passed that exam, or bemoaning the fact that we flunked this one.

YOUR SALESMEN:

What Do They Say About You?

You would not send out a salesman of your firm with tousled hair, baggy trousers, scuffed unshined shoes, bedraggled hat, soiled shirt, and wrinkled overcoat! Of course you wouldn't!

BUT WHY NOT? Because he would give a poor impression of your firm that would not be conducive to business.

You would not display the poorest, shoddiest, most unattractive merchandise you have in your store in your show windows! Of course you wouldn't!

BUT WHY NOT? Because you would create a poor impression of the stock your firm carries and would not draw the better class of trade you desire.

You would not send out poorly printed letterheads on shoddy paper, rubber stamped bill heads, and unprinted envelopes. Of course you wouldn't!

BUT WHY NOT? Because they are the printed representatives of your firm and would create bad impressions as to the character of your store.

Then let us help you send out creditable representatives of your firm. We have an up-to-date printing shop of modern type faces, good papers, and skilled printers with which to produce printing salesmen which will create good impressions of your store.

BUFF OFFENSE TOO POWERFUL

Bulldogs From Weatherford Fall Before Attack Led By Tall Colvin

After playing the Southwestern Teachers of Weatherford, Oklahoma to a standstill in the first half of last Thursday night's game, the second string Buffs gave way to Giant Joe Fortenberry and his crew of Trampling Buffaloes who finished the slaughter in the second half to the tune of 51-19.

Colvin for the Herd was high scorer with a total of eleven counters while Burk and Fortenberry tied for second place with eight points each. For the visitors Kaiser looped the basket for six points followed by Young with five points.

Richards, Morris, Williams, Monroe, and Stroud started the battle and set the pace throughout the entire first half

From the gun the Bulldogs, though a hard fighting crew, were never able to pass the lead gained in the first few minutes of the game. For the second string, Monroe and Richards held the spotlight, playing a fast type of ball. When the whistle blew at the midpoint, the Herd had a bare two point lead over the Oklahomans, but the song changed when the tall boys took the floor.

Playing with almost lethargic ease at times, the trio, Colvin, Comer, and Fortenberry, tossed, rolled and juggled the ball out of the reach of the Bulldogs throughout the entire second half. Colvin, for the first time this season performed with his accustomed smartness, seemingly hitting his stride. The Bulldogs had but few chances to handle the ball and these chances were futile, resulting in only a measly seven points for all their trouble the last half.

For the visitors, Kaiser and Young performed with the most effectiveness.
